Sideboard no. 183 was designed in 1969 and taps into the essence of Danish Modern with its clean lines, functional design and expert craftsmanship.

The sideboard features four doors and three internal sections. The interior of the cabinet is beautifully finished with adjustable shelves and two side sections with optional shelves or pull-out dovetail trays for added storage. The integrated door handles are constructed in solid wood as are the legs. To add extra detail to the design, the legs are pulled slightly under the sideboard to account for skirting, making it possible to place the piece up close to the wall. With a veneered back it can also find great use as a room divider. The eloquent lines and high quality cabinetmaking are sure to make this piece of furniture look beautiful in any setting.

Every piece is made in Denmark and individually numbered on final assembly.

Bernh. Pedersen & Søn, a Danish furniture maker, has a long and strong tradition in furniture and cabinetmaking stretching all the way back to the company's start in 1902. Through three generations the family firm has created and sold classic Danish furniture to many parts of the world. The period 1950 - 1970 in particular was characterized by some of the most stunning and well-executed pieces in Bernh. Pedersen & Søn's history. Especially the classic mid-century sideboards and daybeds designed by Danish furniture designers, including the Danish world-renowned Johannes Andersen, Svend Aage Madsen and Kurt Østervig who were - and still are - highly valued by customers worldwide.

In 2015, great-grandson Thomas Bernhard Pedersen reestablished the company and started focusing exclusively on re-launching some of the exquisite furniture designed in the 50's and 60's.
